WORLD FIRST LIGHTS UP JOZI. The largest LED display of its kind was unveiled on top of the Absa Tower's in the Johannesburg CBD yesterday. The screens, each 38m long and 17m high, are bigger than those that make Piccadilly Circus in London and New York's Times Square instantly recognisable and will light up the city skyline as part of Absa's 10-year inner city rejuvenation project. The screens, collectively dubbed Lumen, feature the most advanced LED technology used on this scale, making this a world first. Picture: Neil McCartney
